To Our Alma Mater

Here's to Bates, our Alma Mater dear,
  Proudest and fairest of her peers.
We pledge to her our loyalty,
  Our faith and our honor thru the years.
Long may her praises resound.
  Long may her sons exalt her name.
May her glory shine while time endures.
  Here's to our Alma Mater's fame.

We have seen her battles bravely fought,
  Prowess and pluck upon the field.
We have known defeat and victory;
  Bates men were never known to yield.
Here's to the Garnet—Hurrah!
  Here's to the pluck that shall not fail,
To our Bates and all she means to us,
  Here's to our Alma Mater—Hail!

Andrews, Delbert Elvin
"Del"

He was a man and take him for all in all,
I shall not look on his like again.

Archibald, Grace
"Archie"

Or light or dark, or short or tall,
She sets a spring to snare them all.

Barker, Nellie Annette
"Nan"

Whatever she did was done with so much ease,
In her alone 'twas natural to please.

Bean, Orel Merton

The mirror of all courtesy.

Bolster, Morton Virgin
"Mort"

Oh—he sits high in the hearts of all.

Boulia, Agnes Louise
"Pat"

I am content to be obscurely good.

Brown, Melissa

Talking she knew not why, and cared not what.

Bryant, Alice Monroe

Separation still is union, if the hearts united be.

Buker, William Hall

"Bill"

I am very fond of the company of ladies.

Burnham, Alice Alden

Wearing all that weight of learning lightly like a flower.

Cole, Roy Emerson
"Coley"

I to myself am dearer than a friend.

Crockett, Alice Robinson
"Fatty"

Thy cheerful, gentle ways I do admire.

Crockett, Adelina Estelle
"Taddy"

To all she was polite without parade.

Cummings, Ralph Burtram
"Sheriff"

Why should life all labor be?

Dorman, Horatio Nelson
"Dorm"

One girl is fair, yet I am well,
Another is wise, yet I am well,
Another virtuous, yet I am well,
But till all graces be in one woman
One woman shall not come into my grace.

Eaton, Mabel
"Shorty"

For I am nothing, if not critical.

Edwards, Jane Curtis
"Granny"

In her tongue is the law of kindness

Edwards, Jennie Hazel
"Jinnie"

For what I will, I will, and there an end.

Farnham, Olive Lillian
"Olivon"

Rare compound of oddity, frolic and fun,
Who relished a joke and rejoiced in a pun.

Farnsworth, Everett Leslie
"Parson"

He of their wicked ways
Shall them admonish, and before them set
The paths of righteousness!

Greenleaf, Gladys Maud
"Kid"

I don't intend to be a flirt, that's just my way.

Hall, Alice Parsons
"George"

Life with laughing would be a dreary blank.

Hall, Myrta Alice
"Pud"

Good thoughts her dearest friends.

Hamilton, Georgia Townly
"Shorty"

Her stature tall,—I hate a dumpy woman.

Harlow, Grace
"Grass"

A maiden should be mild and meek,
Swift to hear and slow to speak.

Harmon, Martha Isadore
"Wuzzy"

With ev'ry pleasing, ev'ry prudent part,
Say, what can this maid want?—She wants a Heart.

Harriman, Ray Wilkins
"Kid"

When a woman's in the case
You know all other things give place.

Howard, Stanley Edwin
"Prex"

And when you stick on conversation's burs,
Don't strew your pathway with those dreadful—urs.

Jack, George Edwin

Men of few words are best.

Jackson, Carl Ziegler
"Jack"

The rule of my life is to make business a pleasure, and pleasure my business.

Jones, Mildred Iris
"Jonah"

She needs no eulogy, she speaks for herself.

Kemp, Ida Boynton
"Bee"

Much good is done up in small bundles.

Kendrick, Cyrus Maxcy
"Cy"

Let me silent be.

Kidder, Frances Patten
"Fanny"

Of softest manners, unaffected mind,
Lover of peace, and friend of human kind.

Lawton, Peter Ignatius
"Pete"

Beware, when the Lord looses a Thinker upon this planet!

Leland, Christine

I bear a charmed life!

Little, Sarah Eliza

"Buster"

A perfect woman, nobly planned,
To warn, to comfort, and to command.

Longfellow, Anna Bartlett

"Tom"

While we live, we will cherish, love, and defend her.

Loring, Fred Milton

A frivolous work of polished idleness.

Lucas, Fay Ellwood
"Lufacas"

A good graft is rather to be chosen than great riches

Luce, Leon Alex
"Shorty"

Whose little body lodged a mighty mind.

Magoon, Charles Alden
"Baldy"

And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew,
That one—small head could carry all he knew.

Martin, Fred Henry

Ambition is the germ from which nobleness proceeds.

Merrill, Charles Elmer

A proper man as one shall see in a summer's day!

Merrill, Nettie May
"Jill"

There's little of the melancholy element in her.

Moulton, John Henry
"Johnny"

Omniscient am I not, yet much is known to me.

Nettleton, Jessie Hague

Smooth runs the water where the brook is deep.

Niles, Lena Mabel
"Jock"

The joy of youth and health her eyes displayed.

Nutting, Nellie Sophronia
"Mother"

I will not budge an inch and I will be heard.

Orr, Lewis Jordan
"Lew"

A moral, studious, and well-bred man.

Parsons, Katherine May
"Kittie"

Peace is the fairest form of happiness.

Parsons, Ruby Marion

A little too wise, they say,
Do ne'er live long.

Peasley, Charles Harold
"Peasil"

Modest and shy is he.

Perry, Florence Helen
"Pudge"

Could I love less, I should be happier now.

Pert, Minnie Warren
"Minora"

A truer, nobler, trustier heart,
More loving or more loyal, never beat
Within a human breast.

Pinkham, Florence Ada
"Pinkie"

Age cannot wither nor custom stale her
Infinite Variety.

Pomeroy, Ray E.
"Pom"

Shut up in measureless content.

Porter, Amorette
"Amy"

There was a soft pensive grace,
A cast of thought upon her face.

Porter, Juanita Douglass
"Nita"

My tongue within my lips I rein,
For who talks much must talk in vain.

Powers, John Herrick

A finished gentleman from top to toe.

Quimby, Clarence Paul
"Quim"

Persuasion tips his tongue whenever he talks.

Quinn, Elton Leroy
"Rusty"

Happy am I, from care I'm free!
Why aren't they all contented like me?

Ramsdell, Guy Harry
"Frog"

See how sickly looking, deathly pale and thin,
Overwork and study are surely killing him.

Schermerhorn, Eva Mildred
"Flattery"

Her voice was ever soft, gentle and low,
An excellent thing in woman.

Smith, Frank Albert

Who perhaps to the summits of Science may soar.

Stevens, Carl Mantle
"Steve"

All the women in the world could not make me lose an hour.

Taylor, Alta Carmen
"Bob"

All plump people are more popular than thin people.
There is something jovial and pleasant
In the sight of a round face.

Thurston, Paul Cleveland

And, but himself, admits no parallel.

Verrill, Clara Elizabeth
"Liz"

Oh Frailty, thy name is woman.

Vinal, Mildred Holman
"Billie"

The sense of duty pursues us ever.

Vinal, Nelly Parker
"Nell"

She is pretty to walk with,
And witty to talk with,
And pleasant, too, to think on.

Whitehouse, Helen Margaret
"Fattery"

Fine by defect, and delicately weak.

Williams, John Linco'n
"String"

Men marvel at my height and are afraid.

Societies

THE LITERARY societies at Bates are an attempt to do without fraternities and to create a medium of social intercourse. They afford an opportunity to gain proficiency in those lines of public work to which one is inclined. Much of the success which Bates debaters have had in the past is attributed to the practice which they have had in the societies. Be this as it is, the societies have for a few years been growing less popular. Earnest efforts have been made by executive committees and officers during the past year to remedy the defects and create a new interest in the societies.

There has been some agitation toward dividing the societies and having one for men and a separate one for women. This proposition was not very well received however, and soon fell to the ground. With the change of surroundings when the societies moved into Libbey Forum, it was thought that they would take a new lease of life, but after the new had worn off and curiosity had been satiated the attendance fell nearly as low as before. This year a new system of membership is being tried. Formerly members were freely solicited to join and no one was expected to take part unless he felt the spirit move. Now personal solicitation is not favored, a person must express his desire to join instead of being driven to it; he is received with a short initiation ceremony and is expected to do his share on the program. It is hoped that this will do much to clear away dead wood and foster a healthy growth of members. The societies each hold before them definite ideals and each set of officers strives to attain them.

The class of 1910 is well represented in societies. Out of seventy-five members of the class, sixty-nine are members of society; twenty-one of Eurosophia, twenty-two of Polymnia, and twenty-six of Piæria. All will remember the enjoyable times they have had at the meetings and afterward, and will regret leaving them. But we bequeath to the succeeding classes the memories and ideals we have held.

These officers for the year 1909-1910 took hold of Eurosophia at a time when it was in a precarious position. They have built it up and developed it until, when they leave it in the hands of others, it has regained its strength. The members although not so numerous as those of other societies take an interest in the work and give their time to it.

It is justly famous for the quality of its musical program and ability. The new members confidently predict that in a year or two Eurosophia will be the leading society at Bates.

Polymnia at the beginning of this year was in a very flourishing condition and the officers of the year turned it over to their successors in an even more flourishing condition. With more new members than the other two societies put together have, Polymnia has reason to feel well satisfied with herself. Her programs have been well balanced and interesting. She has had numbers by members of the faculty and public men which have been of very great benefit.

Vice-President, BERNT O. STORDAHL '11
Secretary, HELEN K. MESERVE '12
Treasurer, ERNEST H. BRUNQUIST '12
Chairman Executive Committee, LEON A. LUCE '10
Chairman Musical Committee, SARAH E. LITTLE '10

Piæria has the honor of being the home of intercollegiate debaters. Seven of the nine debaters this year are members of Piæria. The officers have earnestly striven to make the programs interesting and instructive and they have been in a large degree successful. They have been well balanced and powerful. Although her new members are few in number they are all vitally interested in the development and sustainment of a powerful society, and Piæria will always keep her place among the other societies in numbers and value as a college interest.

THE Young Men's Christian Association is one of the most potent factors for good, at Bates. Founded here in 1888, it has ever since taken a prominent part in the life of Bates men. Its membership composes two-thirds of the student body and out of the Senior class all but three are members. During the year the association has had an evangelist here, Mr. Parker of Norfolk, Va., and the interest shown was very good. Bible study classes were held at the various churches during the Sunday school hour and a total number of over one hundred was enrolled. Next year, Bible study through the week as part of the curriculum and under the direction of different members of the faculty, is planned.

Bates has the honor next year, of entertaining the Y. M. C. A. Conference of the four Maine colleges which meets the first of February. One of the most pleasant parts of the year's experience is the Y. M. C. A. Conference at Northfield. Delegates from all the colleges of the East meet here and join in an endeavor to help each other and themselves in the work. This year Bates sent three men, Wadleigh '09, Farnsworth '10, and Quimby '10. Next year they plan to send ten or twelve men. All Bates men recognize the Y. M. C. A. as one of the pleasant and helpful phases of their college life.

WHAT THE Y. M. C. A. is to the men of Bates, the Y. W. C. A. is to Bates women. It is recognized as a part of the college course as much as the curriculum courses. Under the direction of the association Bible study courses are organized and have been well attended and inspiring. Each year delegates are sent to Silver Bay to the conference of Young Women's Christian Associations. Here on the shores of beautiful Lake George come college women from all over the East and the experience gained here is very uplifting and inspiring.

Every year at the beginning of the fall term, the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. unite and hold a reception to the members of the incoming class. This affords an opportunity to Freshmen to become acquainted with each other and with the upper classes and is a very pleasant introduction to their surroundings as college men and women.

In addition to this reception the association from time to time holds an informal entertainment such as a candy carnival or sale and these are very pleasant and tend to cement friendships more closely together. All the girls unite in declaring that the Young Women's Christian Association is one of the most valuable parts of their course and one which they could least well do without.

Musical Organizations

"The man who has no music in his soul
Is rare around Bates College."

PERHAPS the man who has no music in his ear is rarer still. We eat music, we drink music, we sleep music. Last winter we heard the glee club rehearsing, this term we hear the baseball team practising. This year Bates has the strongest Musical Clubs she has had for years; glee club, mandolin club, quartet, orchestra, band, each compares favorably with that of any college in the State.

Perhaps the glee and mandolin clubs bring the most attention to the college as an institution, for they go out under its auspices. This year the clubs gave ten concerts in different parts of the State. They visited Stevens Mills, Lisbon Falls, New Gloucester, Gardiner, Wilton, Farmington, Lisbon, Auburn, Lewiston, and Saco. Everywhere they went they were enthusiastically received.

The glee club has been coached by Dr. Brandelle and has worked hard to develop a good program. R. E. Cole has been leader this year and deserves much credit for the way in which he has got the fellows out and kept them working. This year is the first in which real competition trials for the club have been held and competition has been very keen, much strong material coming in the entering class. The members of the club who have sung in a majority of the concerts are :

| Tenors | | 2nd Tenors | | Baritones | | Basses | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| F. H. Kierstead | '12 | L. A. Luce | '10 | R. E. Cole | '10 | L. S. Smith | '12 |
| G. E. Brunner | '12 | H. P. Davis | '12 | C. A. Magoon | '10 | F. H. Manter | '13 |
| E. D. Merrill | '12 | P. M. Yeaton | '12 | C. H. Peasley | '10 | H. W. L. Kidder | '13 |
| W. E. Lovell | '12 | C. H. Beek | '12 | W. E. Lane | '12 | H. M. Smith | '13 |

The mandolin club this year is the best we have had in the years since it was reorganized in the winter of 1907-08. We lost by graduation the leader of the club, Mr. Oakes, but under the leadership of G. E. Brunner '12, the club has worked hard and greatly improved the quality of their program. 1910 has been well represented, as she can claim four members of the club. The men who have played in the club regularly are these:

| Mandolins | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| G. E. Brunner | '12 | S. L. Allen | '12 |
| J. H. Moulton | '10 | W. G. Lane | '12 |
| C. A. Magoon | '10 | C. H. Bonney | '12 |
| F. M. Loring | '10 | H. A. Woodman | '13 |

| Mandola | |
|---|---|
| G. H. Ramsdell | '10 |
| Mandocello | |
| H. P. Davis | '12 |
| Banjo | |
| W. E. Davis | '12 |

Besides these men the clubs have carried a pianist, Tebbetts '11; a violinist, H. P. Davis '12, and a bass soloist, Morrison '11. C. P. Quimby and E. L. Farnsworth have acted as readers for the clubs and have both done very creditable work.

From these two organizations have been formed two others, a quartet and a string quartet. These give part of the regular concerts and besides this have gone out independently and given entertainments. The quartet in particular has done very creditable work and has the reputation of being one of the best in the State. This year it has had to do without the services of Bassett '10, who last year was such a tower of strength. It is made up of

| Tenor | 2nd Tenor | Baritone | Bass |
|---|---|---|---|
| Kierstead '12 | H. P. Davis '12 | Cole '10 | Morrison '11 |

The string quartet was first organized this year. They named themselves the Gibson String Quartet and under this name have appeared in a number of places. This has proven one of the most pleasing parts of the entertainment presented by the musical clubs. The quartet is made up of

| Mandolins | | Mandola | Mandocello |
|---|---|---|---|
| Brunner '12 | Allen '12 | Ramsdell '10 | H. P. Davis '12 |

Bates this year has a band and orchestra that are as good as the average. The band has played at all the college games and has done much to keep up the Bates spirit. In the fall they were rather stingy with their wind, but this spring they loosened up and gave us everything we asked for. The personnel of the band is as follows: Fuller (Leader), Turner, Nickerson, Gove, Manter, Smith, Palmer, Moulton, Lane, Tebbetts, Scruton, Pennell, Davis, Stanhope, Beard, Thomas, Erskine, Quinn, Morrison, Bachelder.

The orchestra has this year established a reputation which will be hard to sustain in years to come. The orchestra is made up of

H. P. Davis, Violin  A. Tebbetts, Piano  C. E. Turner, Cornet  J. S. Erskine, Clarinet
E. H. Fuller, Trombone  W. H. Thomas, Drums  J. Y. Scruton, Violoncello

This year for the first time the musical organizations of Bates have effected a permanent organization with constitution and by-laws. Black university hats with the letters of the different bodies in garnet are the official insignia.

Debating

TWENTY-ONE victories and four defeats. This is Bates' proud record in inter-collegiate debating. The colleges who have gained fame for themselves by defeating us are Colby, the University of Vermont and Clark, the last of which has beaten us twice. Among the debating teams we have vanquished we find such names as Harvard Seniors, Queen's University and College of the City of New York. Of victories and of defeats 1910 has had her share, but she has ever held before her the high standard set by years past.

In our sophomore year a new precedent in debating circles was established. At the instigation of Mr. Spofford a debate was arranged between Bates Sophomores and the Sophomore class of the University of Maine. Under the old system the prize division remained in town until commencement and competed for the individual championship. Now, however, from the division, two teams were chosen to debate against each other and from these a team was picked to debate against the University. A prize was given also for the best team debate and to the individual champion.

Lawton was picked as individual champion and the team chosen to meet Maine was made up of Howard, Quimby and Lawton. As we all know, Bates won an easy victory and left the Maine sophomores disappointed in her hopes.

Next year the team was broken up. Lawton, joining forces with Carroll of '09 won from Queen's University, while Howard on the team with Page and Sawyer of '09 was defeated by Clark College. But in our senior year the old team got together again and completed their career by a victory over the College of the City of New York.

So 1910 holds four Drew medals, Lawton having won one in his junior year and Howard, Quimby and Lawton as seniors.

Student Council

DEL ANDREWS had an idea. Now Bates has a student council. For some time conditions at Bates have been going from bad to worse. The students were at odds with the Faculty and the Faculty at odds with the students. Then the Faculty added more fuel to the fire by telling the Freshmen that they were free and irresponsible beings and could do just as they pleased. To us of the upper classes who had been reared to the belief that Freshmen were not quite equal to Seniors and Juniors in importance, the situation was fast becoming intolerable.

To Andrews this was more intolerable than to any one else and after a time his broodings crystallized into the idea of a student council. He got a bunch of Seniors together and imparted to them his project and they saw that it was good. Then they talked to the Juniors and the Juniors talked too and as a result a committee was appointed from the two upper classes to consider the plan and put it before the whole male student body. This committee informed themselves of the workings of similar plans in other colleges and drew up a constitution which they thought embodied the best features of the others and would work well here at Bates. Then they approached the Faculty with the plan and convinced them that it was wisely conceived and would tend to bring more perfect harmony into the relations of the Faculty and students.

By this time the plan was ready to go before the student body. The Faculty very kindly gave the committee all the time they needed and after three days of consideration and argument the constitution of the Bates Student Council was unanimously adopted by the entire body of men students and was put into effect.

The purpose of this body is take out of the hands of the Faculty as many cases as possible which concern the well being of the men and to secure in all cases fair treatment of individuals at the hands of the Faculty when their vital interests are at stake. It also provides for a proper discipline of Freshmen with a view to making them worthy citizens of the college community.

The officers for this year are: Lawton '10, President; R. Cole '10, Vice-President; Stordahl '11, Secretary. The members of the council are: Lawton '10, Howard '10, Cole '10, Martin '10, Andrews '11, Bishop, '11, Stordahl '11, Buck '12, Blanchard '12, Woodman '13.

STUDENT BOARD

Bates Student

ONE of the most prominent factors in the literary life of the college is the Bates Student. It occupies the place in the life of the college that the Spectator occupied in England in the days of Sir Roger DeCoverley. In it the budding genius of literature has opportunity to express himself and gain recognition for his talents.

It has been the ambition of the Student to make a place for itself among the best of college periodicals, and this ambition has been in a fair way realized. The quality of its literary production the last four years has been exceptional and some of its work it has published is worthy of a place among the literature of the nation.

The Student has tried to foster a spirit of more aggressive loyalty to the college and its editorials have breathed an atmosphere of pride and conscious strength which has been inspiring. It has offered prizes for verse in the endeavor to interest contributors in this branch of literary activity and the response has been very gratifying. It offered a prize for a college song and some of the contributions were really meritorious.

The Student is under the charge of the Junior class each year and from that class the editorial board and manager are chosen. In our year the board was Mr. Lawton, editor-in-chief, Mr. Howard, Mr. Quimby, Miss Nettleton, Miss Schermerhorn and Miss Jack. It was also customary to pick assistants from the lower classes and give them a chance to gain experience. These assistants were Mr. Clason '11, Miss Wyman '11, Mr. Clement '12, Miss DeCoster '12. Miss Jack left at the end of the summer term and Miss Porter was elected in her stead.

The magazine was under the management of Mr. Cole and by him it was brought to a high state of perfection.

Under this board the Student has been exceptionally well balanced and has contained a great deal which was worthy of praise. Let us hope that the succeding classes may produce a Student which will be of as great merit as this.

THE RECORD of Bates in football for the past four years has been an honorable one. While during that period, ours has not been a record of unbroken victories, yet every season has seen a team fighting for every inch of ground and if victory has been theirs, the men have borne the crown of victory modestly; and if on the other hand, the fates have been unkind and defeat has been our lot, our teams have been such that although defeated they bore the respect of the victorious opponents and the respect and honor of every Bates man.

In our first football season, that of 1906, we saw Bates triumphant, winning the State Championship, in a series marked by the sensational playing of Cummings, Ricker, Manning of the Class of 1910 and Cobb and Schumacher from the upper classes. This season was also famed for the advent of Clara Turner into the football world. We trimmed Colby 6-0 at Waterville, and in a drizzling rain at Brunswick saw the same team beat Bowdoin 6-0 and at Lewiston tied with Maine, but the results of the other championship games gave the championship to Bates.

Our second season was not so successful. Colby won from us 6-0 at Lewiston, we tied Maine 6-6 at Orono, and after taking the ball through Bowdoin's line, yard by yard for a touchdown and again getting within striking distance and seeing a seemingly perfect field goal kicked by Captain Schumacher, which however, was not allowed by the officials, we went down in defeat by a touchdown gained by a long run from an intercepted pass, the final score being 6-5.

Again the football season came around and we could do no better than see Colby and Maine win from us by scores of 6-0, but this year was marked by one brilliant feature. Bowdoin was beaten in a decisive manner at Brunswick by a score of 5-0.

The past season of 1909 has not been one entirely strewn with roses. Bates lost all three championship games to Colby 11-3, to Maine 15-6, and to Bowdoin 6-0.

Captain Cummings

Captain Cummings, as good a football man as has worn a suit for a Maine College during the past four years, was injured in the New Hampshire game and unable to play for the remainder of the season, which greatly weakened the Bates team.

The class of 1910 was represented on the 'Varsity, the past year, by Captain Cummings, Quarterback; Dorman, Center; and Andrews, Tackle, all of whom did excellent work in their respective positions. May all future classes produce men who will fight as hard to uphold the standard of Bates as have those whom 1910 has given to the cause, and may they ever follow the motto of our Head Coach, "Play Fair, Win like Men or Lose."

BATES HAS every reason to feel proud of her baseball showing since 1910 has been in college. In our freshman year the team finished second in the Maine College Series, winning four of the six championship games and winning twelve out of nineteen games for the entire season. The total score for the season was Bates 103, opponents 67.

The next season Bates succeeded in winning three of the six Maine championship games and winning eleven games on the schedule, losing eight games with total score of Bates 89, opponents 77.

The past season we tied for first place in the Maine Series with the other three colleges by winning both games from Colby, losing both games to Maine and both winning one and losing one of the Bowdoin games; and the team won ten out of a total number of fifteen games played with a total score of 77 to 58.

Captain Harriman

In our freshman year 1910 was represented on the 'Varsity, Harriman pitcher, and Cole, second base. In our sophomore year Harriman and Cummings both played on the 'Varsity, and the past season saw Dorman, Cole and Harriman upholding the reputation of "ten" for producing athletes. Much of the success of the team has been due to these men who have worked hard and faithfully for the success of the teams. Captain Harriman in the box has been a source of trouble to all of our sister colleges since the beginning of his college course and this year bids fair to lead a Bates team to first place in the Maine College Series.

TRACK ATHLETICS at Bates has been a growth and a growth to which all Bates men turn with pride. For many years Bates has been dragging along in third place until last year Colby forced us to take fourth place in the meet at Orono, but in the light of recent events all past history is forgotten and forgiven. In 1907 the standing of the four colleges was: Maine 46½, Bowdoin 45½, Bates 23, Colby 11. Of Bates' twenty-three points in this meet, Williams '10, won 6. In 1908 the standing was Bowdoin 58, Maine 48, Bates 18, Colby 2. Bates was proud of each of the above showings. The standing in 1909 was Bowdoin 64, Maine 41, Colby 12, Bates 11, but a week previous to this Bates had defeated Colby in a dual meet by a score of 68 to 58, which somewhat atoned for the chagrin of being forced into fourth place in the M. I. A. A. by Colby. In 1910 the meet was held at Garcelon field and resulted as follows: Bowdoin 49, Bates 37, Maine 28, Colby 12. For the first time in twelve years Bates came into second place, giving the leaders a close fight for first place. At this feat every one interested in Bates athletics unites in congratulation to the team and Captain Williams, who while he has been in college has taken 34 of the total of 89 points which Bates has taken at the M. I. A. A. meet.

Other track men which our class has contributed are Elword in the dashes, Dorman in the pole vault, Quimby in the broad jump, Merrill in the half-mile, Lucas and Cummings in the dashes; but it must be said that Captain Williams has easily been our star and it was he who developed a well-rounded team to which Bates is looking next season, to win the Maine Meet.

'VARSITY RELAY

1910 RELAY TEAM

Indoor Track

At the indoor exhibitions, 1910 has had her share of the victories and looks with no small amount of pride on her record down to City Hall and her representative Williams, who has for three years been a prominent competitor at the B. A. A. meet.

In our Freshman year we came in a strong second at the indoor meet. Our relay team lost to Bowdoin Freshmen but won from the over-confident Sophomores. We won a total of 19½ points, due to the efforts of Williams, Dorman, Ramsdell, Tasker and the relay team, Cummings, Williams, Tasker and Elword.

In our Sophomore year we made a much harder fight and gave the much-heralded champions from 1908 a terrible scare. We finished seven points behind them, having a total of 22½ points. Williams, Dorman and Tasker with our relay team, which ran a dead heat with 1909 in the finals, gave 1910 her scores.

We did the big trick when we were Juniors. It was then that we won the college championship with a total of 29½ points. Our five first places were secured by, Williams in the high jump and twenty-five yard dash ; Jackson in the shot put ; Dorman in the pole vault ; and Quimby in the potato race. Williams and Dorman also won points in the hurdles and Orr in the high jump.

In our last year we kept up to our old standard, for we hung to second place. Williams, Dorman and Quimby got our sole points. Our relay team for the last two years, although not a winner because of unfortunate circumstances, was considered as fast as any in college. This team was composed of Williams, Cummings, Lucas and Dorman.

Besides our track victories, we have excelled in other indoor athletics. In our sophomore and junior years we won the phantom prize drill shield, being led both times by Bolster, once in the Indian Club Drill, again in the Broadsword drill.

GOOD tennis material has always been at a premium at Bates and 1910 has by no means proven an exception. Every year we have had some hard working aspirants but it was not until we were Juniors that we put men onto the 'Varsity team. In our first two years here we had a few men in each inter-class tournament. In our Sophomore year we had one team in the finals of the college tournament, Bolster and Quimby.

In 1909, Jackson, playing with Peterson, was on the 'Varsity and this team won one match in both the Amherst and Maine Inter-collegiate tournament. Bates tied Amherst and in the State tournament made a good showing by qualifying all her men for the semi-final. Bolster and Quimby were on the team that played Amherst.

In our last year we had one team, Cole and Moulton in the finals in doubles and two men, Peasley and Jackson in the singles, in the college tournament. Jackson has been captain this year and has developed a strong team. Jackson and Bolster, Moulton and Quimby in the doubles and Jackson, Peasley and Bolster played in the singles in the dual tournament with Amherst. At the State tournament Bolster and Moulton with Clason '11 and Woodman '13 played for Bates.

Moulton proved an efficient manager for the team and arranged two successful tournaments on the home courts. We have not won the State Championship since 1905, but Boothby '09 won into the finals in 1907; we had two teams in doubles in the semi-finals in 1908; in 1909 we had both teams in the semi-final and Wadleigh '09 and Boothby '09 won their tennis letters by winning into the finals.

In the girls' Athletic Association we have had some able representatives on the tennis courts. Miss A. Hall and Miss Leland have won the college championship in doubles, and in our Senior year Miss Leland has been manager of this depertment. A winner of three successive years may retain permanent possession of this trophy. 1910 has never won this but has always had players in the finals working for it. There is no doubt that we shall have one name engraved on it this year, however.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

Basketball

ALTHOUGH basketball was not primarily introduced at Bates for the benefit of our class, yet we have not been prohibited from owning a ball, having a 'Varsity captain and two 'Varsity players, from our class, and a class team every year of our college course. Harriman and Dorman have done the greatest amount of work along this line for us, both being on the 'Varsity for 1907-08. As a college sport, the game lead one brief year of existence then, just as Harriman was to lead a Bates team to victory, basketball resumed its old position and inter-class games followed as usual.

In our Sophomore-Freshman game we were defeated by 1909 in a close game, score 13-11. Our team was composed of Harriman, Tasker, Fellows, Dorman, Wood and Ford. In our Sophomore year our basketball energy was given to the 'Varsity and we did not suffer the Washington's Birthday game to come off. In our Junior and Senior years we had class teams made up more for the sake of trips and the sport of playing, than for any class enthusiasm. These teams have been fairly successful and have won a large percentage of the games played.

The Girls' Basketball team has been a decided success from the first season to the last. There have been very few changes in the team during the four years. The following nine girls have each participated in the heaping up of the honors for 1910: Iris Johnson, Nellie Barker, Florence Perry, Grace Archibald, Olive Farnham, Mildred Vinal, Anna Longfellow, Christine Leland and Lena Niles.

Our first year at basketball was remarkably successful, and although 1908 held the championship, it was generally considered to be due only to the fact that 1910's star forward, Miss Johnson was absent during the championship games. The second and third years of our basketball history are famous in the annals of 1910. Under the careful training of Captain Niles the team worked hard and steadily, and, the result of their natural and acquired skill, won the championship for both years.

If our team did well during the first three years, it certainly came up to a standard of excellency in its last season. Playing three times a week it was not once beaten in a practice game. In the championship games, 1910 lost but one and that the long-to-be-remembered game with the Juniors.

With a fame everlasting and as yet unapproached, shall our basketball record endure, down through many a generation of would-be followers and aspirants.

Public Speaking

ONE morning in the fall of the Freshman year Prof. Rob appeared before us and with his sweetest smile and nicest voice announced that the next term's course in elocution was open to us. From this humble beginning has followed a series of public speaking contests which has never been excelled and seldom equalled. The judges have always unanimously declared this.

Among the men the scalp has hung from the belt of Lawton most often, he winning in Freshman and Sophomore declamations and Sophomore champion debate and winning second prize in the Junior exhibition. Among the ladies the contest has been more even, Miss Schermerhorn winning in Freshman Decs, Miss Harmon in Sophomore Decs and Miss Nettleton in the Junior Exhibition.

In our Senior year Mr. Gilmer revised a forgotten custom and instituted a Senior Exhibition. Although there was no prize offered and no decision rendered the whole division showed signs of over-work and nervousness.

Ivy Day Poem

Bright shone the sun upon the distant hills,
For morning with her glories manifold
Smiled on the earth, and blessed it with her light.
With buoyant step and brave, a youth set forth
To learn what lay beyond those mystic hills
That with a power resistless drew him on.

Not far away, directly in the path
Which led up to those hills of mystery,
Arose a temple vast, with vaulted dome
Supported by great Doric columns, carved
From purest marble;—marble such as that
Pentelicus produced for sculptors old—
Such as the ancient Greeks might well have used
For Clio's temple,—Muse of History.

The massive brazen doors were swung far back
Disclosing walls with hangings rich and rare:
For here the Master Artist's wondrous hand
Had wandered at its will; here every life,
However lowly, had its deeds portrayed,
And all were blended by the hand of Time
Until they formed one vast harmonious whole.

Within the portal wide the youth now passed:
On every side the artists worked with zeal;
Here at his easel sat a sturdy youth
With canvas scarce begun.
Here worked a man with steady hand and firm,
Whose half-completed task gave promise of
A masterpiece when it should be perfected.

Here sat an artist old with weary eyes:
The hands that held the brush were worn and thin
And trembled as he worked; the silv'ry hair
That in profusion fell about his brow
And half-concealed the aged face, seemed like
An aureole about some sainted head.
The weary fingers ceased their rapid work,
And, looking up, he saw a radiant youth
With eyes wherein shone courage, strength and power;
A youth who strangely brought back from the past
His own young manhood left so long ago.
The old man spoke: "'Tis many weary years
Since in my hand the Master Artist placed
This canvas, and to me this message gave,—
'Hereon portray thy life: from this time forth
Let every deed thou doest find a place
Upon thy canvas, whether good or ill.'"
To Heav'n the artist raised his eyes: "And now
Such as I have, O Master, give I thee,
The product of my hands, my heart, my life."

E'en as he spoke the doors swung open wide
And Time, the Master Artist, stood in majesty
Upon the threshold of the temple fair.
His voice of wondrous sweetness filled the hall
As to the artist old these words he spoke:
"Thy faithfulness hath won for thee a place
Of honor in the Hall of History.
No longer blindly shalt thou labor here;
But, far away beyond the mystic hills,
Which as a youth you strove to reach in vain,
A new life waits for thee—a life
Where youth shall never end—eternity."

And as the old man slowly made his way
Up to the purple hills, then disappeared
Into the realm of mystery, the youth
Heard by his side the Master Artist's voice,—
"Make haste; thy canvas in the Hall of History
Must have its share of noble deeds and good;
The future, the unknown, untried is yours."

Festivities.

CLASS Rides

OUR CLASS RIDES have been of a varied sort. For the most part the girls have attended in abundance while the men have sometimes all gone and sometimes have not been able (?) to go. Our first class ride was in the fall of our Freshman year when good old "Uncle Johnny" Stanton took us up Mount Gile, East Auburn, and we spent a most glorious day. Every one was present in all degrees of greenness, bashfulness and big-headedness. It was our first good opportunity of seeing each other and finding whom we were. It took some not long to find their affinities and thus early in the course co-education got a fast hold. Nearly everyone has tried again since, however, and some are still seeking in vain for their affinity. The visit to the Fish Hatchery, the picnic at the farm-house, the outing on Lake Auburn and the ride back to the city were all of particular interest to us. In the spring of the same year our good friend, Prof. Stanton, again took us on a ride, this time to "No Name" Pond. It was a hot day and especially suited to our form of entertainment. We had a co-educational meet, long walks and fine boat rides. This ride made us all better friends.

In the Sophomore year our class ride was down to Frost Park. It was a wet day and the place was well chosen, for there was ample room for us inside and games, songs and indoor sports were indulged in. In the fall of the Junior year we took our ride to Turner. We went from Turner Village in a launch up the Nezinscot River for quite a distance to a place prepared for our picnic. A large fire was built and the leading feature of the forenoon was baseball. Both men and women took part in this sport. In the afternoon more games were played and all had a long ride in the launch. We returned to town at six, having had one of the most successful trips of our course.

In the fall of the Senior year we found another rainy day and most of us went to New Meadows Inn. The rain did not prevent baseball in the forenoon in which all indulged. A shore dinner was thoroughly enjoyed by the class and then songs were sung for a time. The afternoon was spent in games and walks in spite of the dampness. At six we finished our ride, a happy party.

Bird Walks

BURR-UR-R-R-R. With a deafening clang off goes that alarm clock. To the sleep-heavy brain it brings a direful warning. Five o'clock, and that bird walk! Where is the enthusiasm that was ours the night before, when the hasty and too lightly considered resolution was made? Too late would we come to the conclusion that all the bird-walks in Christendom could not take the place of that last nap that might be ours between five o'clock and the time of the rising bell. Rather reluctantly but hopefully we move to the window to see, perhaps, if the weather isn't bad. But with one long look down across the campus we are lost. For the sun is stealing under the long-shadowing maple trees over the deep rich emerald of the grass, the air is soft and mellow and soothing, the birds are joyfully awake and calling—everything seems so charmingly fresh and inviting that our enthusiasm rises in leaps and bounds, and before we know it we are gathering with the rest of the faithful band before Hathorn Hall, where "Uncle Johnny" is patiently waiting.

Soon we are off, in carefully distinct groups, mark you, with the girls ahead and the boys bringing up the rear. The trip may be up the railroad track to the French cemetery with a ride back from the fair-grounds on the Main Street car;—and woe be unto the straggling couple left behind penniless, for they shall be breakfastless. Or perhaps the trip will be to Thorn Hill, or to the Reservoir. Wherever it may be all agree at the end that they have had a jolly time, and no one will deny then that the masculine and the feminine elements are still unreconciled.

More enjoyable even than the short morning walks were those taken Saturday forenoons to Mount Gile or down towards Lisbon. One who has had that privilege will never forget it.

As a matter of course, on nearly every walk some one fell into a brook, or some girl got hung up on a barbed wire fence.

As to birds, all who were interested in them learned many new things; the names and songs of the most common ones, the time of their coming, and in what localities they are to be found.

Every one could not but feel repaid for the sacrifice he made, if he did not see a bird. Just the walk in the clear morning sunshine, to the person fond of nature was enough. But more than this, to be with "Uncle Johnny" and to feel his complete confidence in you personally was a real inspiration. May we never forget his gentle teachings and noble character.

IN THE good days of the past before College Authority cast its relentlessly searching glance into the dark and hidden methods of class entertainment, and set its merciless hand to pruning out all that was judged, with unerring instinct, to be Unbecoming and Improper, there was a Festival night celebrated among us near the beginning of each college year known as Hallowe'en. In gay good cheer and with joyful abandon was its coming observed. Diligently did each class search out for itself a duly retired spot connected with a mysterious atmosphere of the proper shade of gloom, and thither did it betake itself stealthily and free from care on the mystic night to celebrate all the Witches' Rites ever known to man, and to have a real Good Time besides. Black cats, grim witches, gloom-shrouded ghosts, leering pumpkin lanterns with their fitfully sputtering light and all the other accompaniments peculiar to Hallowe'en furnished the awe-inspiring local color, while good old-fashioned games played with a relish and with good class spirit, intermingled with many trips to the apple barrel and the sweet cider jug, with a sumptuous feed at the end, did the rest.

Twice, in such manner, has 1910 celebrated. As Freshmen we cannily chose a secluded hall in Auburn, unknown to the prying Sophomores who were on our trail with black mischief in their hearts, and there we disported in the most approved fashion. We had not known each other long, but the prevailing atmosphere of good humor and good fellowship worked wonders in a short time. As we left for home near midnight we voted the evening a jolly success.

Perhaps no more romantic nor picturesque gathering has 1910 had than that which assembled at East Auburn Grange Hall in 1908 at the time of our second Hallowe'en party. A good old fashioned harvest supper was ready and waiting for our lusty appetites upon our arrival, and to say that this was enjoyed would not half express the complete satisfaction in the feast. But the intellectual feast that followed proved even more enjoyable. The subtle humor of the toast-master pervaded the entire company and the brilliant prophecies foretold by the wise prognosticators have in a large measure come true. The evening all too speedily slipped away and it was nearing midnight when we Sophs, brimful of class spirit, adjourned to wend our way Bates-ward.

Such is the record of our Hallowe'ens,—short but full of satisfaction as far as it goes. Though its celebration is now a thing of the past, swept away to give place to more fitting and dignified affairs of real social importance and worth, may the old Hallowe'en party be never forgotten.

THERE WAS a time when the boys of the class thought that the ambition of 1910 was a little lacking. So they decided to have a banquet and consume a little spirit. On the evening of March 19, 1908 we went down to city hall and gave '08 a most awful run for their money and then stepped over into Auburn to New Odd Fellows hall. There we found the tables buckling under their load of savory viands, and at twelve-thirty or thereabouts we sat down and began to stuff ourselves.

After the boards had been emptied of their load, smokes were in order and Mr. Quimby was invited to the toast-master's chair. As master of ceremonies he introduced Roy Cole who told us about "Our class." Then Stanley Howard in "With the Bunch on Friday Night" told us what he generally did and advised us to go and do likewise. Ralph Cummings spoke on "Athletics" and Thurston set up the Faculty and then Magoon gave us an exposition of "Class and College Spirit." Numerous extempore speakers were called upon and with cheers for the class and college the morning passed away. At a small hour the fellows took their way to the campus, some to go to bed and some to recitations, but all agreeing that the spirit of the class of 1910 was not ready for burial, and that the banquet was one huge good time.

College Teas

AT THE time when we came as Freshmen to Bates the process of grinding off the sharp corners began. By the end of the Freshman year, we, at least, regarded ourselves as something more than diamonds in the rough, and when the Sophomore year was completed even the upper classmen began to see our worth. Yet had we much to learn in the ways of the great world of society. The "powers that be" noted this, gave the matter serious thought, and so on the afternoon of the twelfth of November, 1908, we were initiated into the mysteries of a College Tea.

Many were the fears and tremblings which assailed us lest we inadvertently commit some breach of etiquette; but thanks to the kindly suggestions issued by a Committee of Rules and Regulations pertaining to College Teas, we were saved from embarrassing situations and convinced the Faculty that we had indeed brought "the makin's." Suffice it to say that, that which we had looked forward to with apprehension proved to be a very enjoyable as well as a beneficial function.

In the winter term of the Senior year occurred the delightful "At Home" at Dr. Britan's. This was distinctly a class affair, the underclasses being entertained later. It was even more successful than the larger function of the preceding year. The cheerful fireplace and the cordiality of our hostesses were so inviting that several of our number remained until a late hour exchanging confidences before the glowing fire.

It is a sad fact that we do not appreciate opportunities until they have slipped away. Perhaps we have failed to fully appreciate the good we might derive from such functions; but if we do fail to carry the lessons there learned into our future lives we shall certainly not forget the motive which prompted them,—the kindly interest of every memberof our Faculty.

Robin Hood's Circus

NOT OFTEN does a circus come to college. When it was noised abroad, therefore, that Robin Hood's Circus was to make its appearance at Bates, there was much excitement. Eager spectators gathered on Fiske Boulevard to watch the parade which consisted of marvelous elephants, giraffes, lions, bears, and monkeys, followed by daring cowboys on strange-looking steeds rather unstable in their underpinnings, and Indians, terrifying in their war-paint. But these were only a beginning of the wonders yet to come.

On the circus grounds men, animals, clowns, hand-organs, monkeys, popcorn, and pink lemonade all combined in one delicious turmoil. The beasts in the animal show displayed extraordinary intelligence which, indeed, seemed almost human. And, by the way, they furnished additional proof to the theory that the spirits of the departed enter into beasts; for when one elephant accidentally collapsed, a human form was found among the ruins.

The baby show was the "best ever," and the babies did credit to their nurses, and to Mellin's Food.

Great crowds gathered about the side-shows to gaze at the prodigies there displayed,—the Double-headed Monster; the Siamese Twins; the Sutherland Sisters with their yards of flowing hair; the Fat Lady, four hundred pounds warranted; the One Thousand Dollar Beauty, arousing a tumult of adoration and despair in the hearts of country swains; the Wild Man of Borneo in all his hideousness, uttering uncanny sounds, which caused the hair of the bystander to stand erect and a chill to crawl up his spine and down to his finger-tips; and last of all, the gruesome Living Skeleton. But the affair was not without its romance, for the fat woman and the skeleton man, each recognizing in the other a coveted charm, fell in love at first sight and were married on the spot.

The closing event was the balloon ascension, a fair lady breaking the record by asending to the incredible height of twenty feet, and descending to the exact place of starting, unharmed.

Robin Hood's Circus will long be remembered.

HARE AND HOUND CHASE.

AN EVENT toward which the girls look forward with much pleasure at the beginning of the college year is the Hare and Hound Chase. This is an annual September event and is largely attended by the faculty ladies as well as the girls. The trails, the usual number being four, are marked out beforehand, each with a different color of confetti and converge at some suitable spot along the river side where the hares assemble. Early in the afternoon the girls gather in front of Rand Hall at the sound of the hunter's horn, from which place they start upon their several trails in pursuit of the hares. Now and then a sign on a tree or some mysterious message buried in the ground indicates to the hounds that they are on the right scent and have not lost their trail, which leads by ways not always easy of access. A reward awaits the hound who is fleetest of foot and the last to enter the hares' retreat is not forgotten.

Then follow preparations for the evening feast. Wood is gathered and fires are built around which the hares and hounds gather peacefully to bake their potatoes and roast their bacon. Feasting is followed by singing and in true Indian fashion all join in a circle about the gleaming fire to lend their voices to the joyful strains.

Tired from the day's hunt, the worn out hounds and pursued hares slowly and wearily wend their steps homeward, thoroughly exhausted by the day's sport, to dream over the spoils of the chase.

Class Clans

The Original Clans

In the good old year of 1908 when the grand old class of 1910 was in the heyday of its glory (and numbers), lived two old Knights, Sir Harry of the Flaxen Hair and Sir Paul of the Guileless Tongue. Now it came to pass that Sir Harry and Sir Paul, when the snow lay cold and white upon all the land around, in lieu of something better to be done, swore bluely at each other that they should be enemies.

So each called unto him his trusty henchmen to the number of four and three and administered to them the oath of fealty. And the Mutts, for such did Sir Harry dub his motley following, took as their emblem the skull and bones and sware this mighty oath,

"To be true to one another
And love the cards as a brother."

But the angels, for so Sir Paul addressed his motley crew, adopted as their symbol a golden harp and solemnly did swear this fearful oath,

All fair maidens to eschew
And to the Angels to be true.

The Mutts

Then each did purchase him a pack and the battle was on. First the Angels, by skillful maneuvering of Ace and King and Jack, drove back the enemy, but the Mutts, leading forth their trumps, restored the line and the fight was waged more fiercely than before. For long days and far into nights did the bold Knights wage war one upon the other. Until the buds burst forth on tree and shrub did the tournament rage and at last after many moons had fulled and waned did the vanquished bow to the victor.

Then did some stray from the fold and go seeking after false prophets. By their hats shall ye know these. Also by the full and satisfied look upon their faces. They eat at Bean's. Whenever you see a derby wandering around the campus look carefully for a Bonehead under it. They are not Boneheads however, they are only Merry Bachellors.

The Ten-Tens

Who has not heard of that noble, august, and fun-loving body,—the Ten-Tens? Let him who knows not, keep silence. The Ten-Tens are just a jolly crowd who agreed long ago to join forces in having good times, and who among that number can ever forget the Prospect Hill Spread, the house-party at Orr's Island, the spreads in the Dormitory, the luncheon in March of the Senior year, or the trip to Turner Centre on Deborah's birthday? Many other affairs too numerous to mention have been made immortal in the memories of the Ten-Tens.

The Lesser Luminaries

Not often do they appear so subdued. Their general every-day mien is one of joyful mirth and festivity. Not even at meal times does their air of levity give way to the sobriety demanded by rigid convention, for brilliant and scathing wit and repartee is let loose. Not one is spared its fire—to each in turn may the crooked finger be upheld with the command "come through!" It is only before the camera that they become serious, for they are in mind with the Scot who said, "It's aye a fearsome sicht to stand stone still the awhiles a one-eyed comera machine glowers on ye."

The Jolly Seven

Certainly the "Jolly Seven" have lived up to their name and have their share of pleasant memories which will never be forgotten. One of the jolliest of their stunts was a house-party to Lake Pennesseewassee during the last term of the Junior year.

Lesser Luminaries

The Jolly Seven

So infinitely far away are the celestial bodies that a common unit is necessary in measuring their distance: similarly, the water of the lake was so deep that such a unit was required and a certain young lady of the party kindly consented to be that unit. Suffice it to say the water was not quite over her head, but that's not saying it was shallow, by any means. Some of her hard-hearted companions sat on the veranda and made "divinity" while she risked her life!

"And now all these are at an end, but nothing can take away the pleasure we have had or keep us from living over the good times in our minds."

The Rand Hall Girls

"We appear to be a very dignified and learned company of young ladies, as you would naturally expect a group of college Seniors to look. A certain degree of perfection is reached only through a process of evolution and our career as Rand Hall girls certainly illustrates this. We have attained our present state by means of a series of acts such as midnight spreads which necessitated a heart-to-heart talk with the Dean the day after or by participating in such events as the "Fourth Floor Fire Drill," which was followed by far graver consequences. Although we would not be guilty of such deeds now, the fact is we never would have reached the high plane we have attained had we never experienced them and the little mishaps which we have encountered during our four years life at Rand Hall may be rightly regarded as stepping-stones to this seeming state of perfection."
